

AMANDA MILLER, Chief Marketing Officer

An avid fan of Wonder Woman, The Little Mermaid, and basically anything British (especially Doctor Who), I am the voice and face of Ink & Quill Communications. Content marketing—and marketing in general—fit me perfectly due to my background. I attended 12 schools across the US and Germany between kindergarten and graduation, so I can relate to almost anyone. My undergraduate degree is in child development and my master's degree is in career development, and I use both in life and work.

I look forward to connecting with you and helping you with your content marketing needs. If I can't do it on my own, I'm smart enough to bring in the big guns, my team of contractors below.