

“How Much is Enough?”

Many parents with midsized and larger estates would like to benefit children with an inheritance. We do not give inheritance to children to make them worse persons, but in the hope that they will become better persons. Quite often, parents who have midsized to large estates can transfer a substantial inheritance. But the parents ask the question, “How much is enough?”